

How Does Your Current Emergency Alert System Stack Up?

If your current system is inefficient or not cost-effective, it's time to evaluate other options.

When it comes to emergency alerts, you need a reliable and affordable vendor you can trust to put the safety of your citizens first.

Your ability to provide public-safety alert and warning messages to the public is critical. As the COVID-19 pandemic and other events affecting your residents continue to grow, so does the need for real-time information from government agencies. During a crisis, any interruption or unforeseen reduction of services within your emergency alert system could put your citizens and stakeholders at risk.

If you've noticed a reduction in services, or increase in cost from your current mass notification provider, now is an excellent time to review a better option.

Many communities across the U.S. have evaluated and chosen OnSolve CodeRED over other emergency alert systems. Shouldn't you?

Options include:

- Geo-targeted alerts sent via voice, text, email, social media and mobile app alerts
- Public self-registration and text-to-enroll capabilities help build your contact database and reach a larger audience
- 24x7x365 live client support (U.S.-based, highly-trained experts)
- Internal staff alerting with advanced two-way messaging with response options
- Integrated IPAWS options available
- Public alerting and residential safety with advanced ESRI-based mapping technology to target specific people
